

SUCCESS CRITERIA FOR WRITING

Chris Quigley

Introduction

Success criteria help children to understand what you are looking for in a piece of writing.

These resources help children from Reception to Year 6 to become confident, self-evaluating writers.

Each statement may be used as an individual teaching point, taking one lesson or a number of lessons culminating in a finished piece of writing.

The layout encourages self-evaluation by children as well as providing a feedback device for teachers.

Suggested uses:

Use as a self evaluation tool for children.

Use as a marking or feedback sheet, indicating where children have been successful.

Use each criterion to evaluate published texts and as teaching points towards your ultimate goal.

Attach children's work to the photocopied sheet, with both teacher's and the child's evaluation and place in a learning log.

When writing across the curriculum, use the success criteria from previously taught writing skills so that children produce work of the same high standard. (Eg Year 4 children writing instructions in science – help them to write GOOD instructions by providing them with the success criteria you used the last time they wrote instructions).
